"MOVIES" POPULAR IN LONDON.

A London cable dispatch, which reveals its author's nationality in the employment of the British "different to" in place of the American "different from," notes that there are now only two good plays on the speaking stage of that metropolis, while good American and German "movies" are drawing crowds, the palm being yielded to American producers especially in big historical spectacles. "The theatre is stagnating," says this correspondent. For a long time the majority of stage plays have been dull, but now "the movie has taught us we really need no longer be bored." Even a dull movie is "neither as boring for "the ever moving scenes keep one anticipating that something worth while will evolve."

A similar attitude is now widely existent in America. A really new and strong play is as enjoyable as ever, with its distinct advantages of color and the human voice, but an ordinary play restricted to four or five scenes causes impatience as it drags through three hours. A good photoplay, on the other hand, though lacking in color and the sound of the human voice, has many advantages all its own, including vast variety of scene and the successful accomplishment of much that is impossible on the speaking stage. The English correspondent quoted above tells how deeply he was thrilled by the "Ten Commandments" that made Moses and even the miraculous crossing of the Red Sea "convincing," of how it aroused a new historic interest in the Scriptures and of how he went home and "devoured the Old Testament until the small hours of the morning." Unquestionably the educational and propaganda possibilities of the "pictures" are unlimited.

IMPORTANT PRISON REFORM.

Governor Smith has urged and New York's legislature has approved a prison reorganization plan which is an important step forward in prison management. The most advanced feature of the new law provides for a regulated industrial system under a competent superintendent whereby prisoners are to be paid a reasonable wage based upon what they actually do, and their parole is to be determined in some degree by their work record. The general idea is not new; it reaches back a century, and fifty years ago the warden of the Tombs is said to have offered the following admirable suggestions which were prevented by hampering laws from being adopted: "Let the prisoner share in his earnings, and let the percentage of his earnings increase at every stage of advance; make the rules of conduct so stringent that it will cost great effort to gain all the credit marks. Introduce many of the most useful trades, let the prisoner have his choice to learn; take time to eradicate all bad habits."

It is obvious that the New York plan worked out through the aid of sound industrial methods will not only make for good order and revenue in prisons but give the prisoner an incentive to hard work and good conduct that may gradually lead to his moral reform. While shortening his time in many cases, it will also prepare him for remunerative employment in honest lines when he comes out. In modern times the aim of imprisonment is not punishment alone but reform, and this secondary but equally important aim will be furthered by the adoption of the plan.

According to a Topeka dispatch to the New York Herald-Tribune, the political action of the unflower State in November will depend on the crops. If they are good Mr. Coolidge can count on its electoral vote; otherwise, he is likely to lose it. They must be credulous folk out in Kansas. When a political party claims to be the author of good times, including plentiful rains and good crops, it hardly expects to be taken quite literally in every particular.

Once asked if he knew of a Cabinet meeting where "any one discussed a political question as a Christian," John Norley is said to have answered: "No, not even Mr. Gladstone." Does that help to explain why there are so many modern pulpits mainly interested in politics?

Must a successful statesman suppress his sense of humor? The venerable Mr. Depew recalls that James A. Garfield once told him that he might become President if he would stop telling funny stories.

"Pharaoh's Tomb Shows Helen of Troy Was real." The new testimony is unimpeachable. Only a real woman could have raised such a dust.

Beer with a "kick" is not what the laboring man is after, says Mr. Gompers, "but beer that has warmth and is palatable, drinkable and will make part of a meal." But the trouble is, it is impossible to secure all that without an accompanying "kick."

According to Judge Gary, "the worst thing we have in our American Congress." Undoubtedly its lid-liftings have of late caused much worry and disturbance in high places.

European royalty must have signed as well as smiled on reading of the crowd "unequaled in numbers" that welcomed "Doug and Mary" to London town.

After all fame has a tendency to endure. The new Woodrow Wilson Road is the longest street in Chicago.

THE OFFICE CAT

We rather imagine when we eventually do get back to normalcy it is going to be like getting back to the old home town after living in a big city. It will seem mighty small and cramped.

"Maggie, be my wonderful one! Let me protect you from all harm, Maggie dear, I am drowning with love for you!" Rolling over in his sleep, he took his fingers out of the water pitcher—and went back to dreamland.

Sir Isaac Pitman.

Pitman, the inventor of modern shorthand writing, was a worker. At sixty-five he was in his office at 6 a. m. summer and winter. Till he was fifty he never took a holiday or wanted one. For 20 years he worked 14 hours at his desk, from 6 a. m. to 10 p. m., with 2 hours off for meals. At forty-five he began to knock off at 6 p. m. He lived to be eighty-four. At twenty-five dyspepsia nearly killed him, but he got over it by giving up meat and wine. He worked incessantly at his system of shorthand, giving it popularity by his complete reports of lectures by prominent scientists in Manchester, England. His successor, Benjamin Pitman, improved upon his plan. But shorthand was well known among the ancients, some of the old Roman Orations, those of Cicero having been preserved for us that way, in all probability.

A EUROPEAN MEMORIAL TO WOODROW WILSON

The Czech-Slovak nation honors the late Woodrow Wilson as one of the founders of the new republic. Throughout Czechoslovakia buildings, parks, streets, etc., have been named "Wilson" in honor of the great War President. This picture shows the new "Wilson" Railroad Station in Prague; the meeting-point of all railroads leading from Prague to Germany, Poland, and all other contiguous countries.

Ergophobia Scared Him Until It Was Explained

A broad-shouldered man shuffled into the receiving ward of a city hospital in Philadelphia the other day and demanded a thorough examination for a mysterious disease that had "completely knocked him out."

He was so insistent that the resident physician committed him to a ward.

The next day the chief resident physician made the examination, while the patient groaned and wailed. With a laconic smile the doctor marked "ergophobia" on his card and passed on his rounds.

"Just think, isn't that terrible!" cried the patient. "Of all things, I am stricken with ergophobia. What will become of me?"

"You're discharged from the hospital, that's all," said the resident physician curtly.

"But I am dying from ergophobia. Say, doc, what does that mean?" the patient asked.

"Oh, it's a common disease. The word is derived from 'ergon,' meaning work, and 'phobia,' meaning fear. In plain words, my man, you're suffering from a fear of work—just plain laziness, that's it."

"White Coal" Development

New York state leads all the others in the amount of water power development, the extent of the utilization being 1,800,000 horse power. The largest single development is at Niagara Falls. The second state in the use of "white coal" is California, where something more than 1,000,000 horse power has been developed. There is a big gap between these figures and those for Washington which occupies third place, using 454,000 horse power. Maine is fourth with a few thousand less horse power, and Montana is fifth with 344,000 horse power development.

MEETING IN

HOSPITAL WARD

(Continued from First Page.) anywhere; and the further fact that expeditious treatment will often accomplish the desired end, whereas removal of a patient to Pittsburgh means sometimes, fatal delay by the transportation of time required.

John D. Berryman introduced the following resolution which was adopted by a unanimous standing vote:

Whereas, After a full and free discussion, by a representative body of citizens of Charleroi and neighboring towns, at a meeting held at the Elks Club rooms, Charleroi, Pa., on Tuesday, May 13, it is evident that the Board of Directors and management of the Charleroi-Monessen hospital are trying to give this community hospital service under the following discouraging conditions, viz:

First—That the building now in use for a hospital is the only one in use for that purpose in a community of approximately 50,000 people.

Second—That the present hospital building is entirely too small to give service, the community having since the hospital was established, grown away beyond the facilities of the building now in use.

Third—That the present building is frame, very inaccessible, no elevator service, and with none of the modern conveniences so essential to the proper handling and care of those needing of prompt hospital treatment. Therefore be it

RESOLVED: That recognizing the needs of this community for proper up-to-date hospital service, we urge the Board of Directors of the Charleroi-Monessen hospital, to go ahead with their proposed plans as contemplated, and that we urge the general public to respond liberally to the appeal about to be made for the funds so much needed. And be further

Resolved: That those here assembled pledge themselves to give the Board of Directors every assistance possible, to make the contemplated drive for funds a success.

The board of directors held a session at the conclusion of the banquet at which tentative plans for a drive for funds for the building of a hospital, were made. The matter of location will be worked out satisfactorily to all concerned.

THE SUGAR BEET

MAY BE A BIG STATE CROP

Introduction of the sugar beet as one of Pennsylvania's leading crops may be a development of a movement just started by Charles Miller of Franklin, Pa. Mr. Miller, who has a farm of about 400 acres in Venango county, is making a study of the movement now under way at Defiance, Ohio, where 1,200 farmers are building their own sugar factory on a cooperative basis. He believes that a similar project is feasible not only in the vicinity of Franklin, but in many other sections of Pennsylvania, as a means of improving the soil and benefitting the extensive dairy industry already established in many sections of the state.

"In Europe sugar beets are raised for dairy feed and sugar is the by-product," according to a letter Mr. Miller has received from Charles H. Allen, President of the Farmers Sugar Co., at Defiance, Ohio. "Any land capable of growing good corn is capable of growing beets and the labor put on it by the farmer is no more than on his corn crop except in the fall when it is considerably more hauling. There is a lot of hand labor but the sugar factories finance this, bringing whole families of laborers who are paid by the acre."

A sugar factory to operate economically needs a daily capacity of 600 tons, requiring about 6,000 acres of sugar beets every year, according to Mr. Allen. As the farmer should rotate his beets with other crops, there should be at least 25,000 acres of beet land within a section of forty square miles. Any good corn land will grow sugar beets.

"Sugar beets are chemically nothing but wind and water—carbon secured from the carbon dioxide in the air and hydrogen and oxygen taken from the rain. Sugar takes no fertility from the soil. Since wind and water are inexhaustible, leading American agriculturists argue that America should follow the example of Denmark, France, Germany and Belgium and raise more of such farm products that do not exhaust the soil instead of wheat, which is low in price and hard on soil fertility. This means, Mr. Allen pointed out, that no law affecting agriculture should be passed in Pennsylvania or in the United States, unless it first answers the question: Does it conserve the fertility of the soil?"

"America could easily raise all the sugar needed for her own consumption, government officials agree, thus obviating the necessity of paying to Cuba annually $250,000,000 to $500,000,000 for nothing but wind and water in the form of sugar."

In Society's Realm

A very pretty wedding of interest was solemnized today at high noon, at the home of Mrs. Nancy E. Stoler of Saxton, Pa., when her daughter, Miss Hazel became the bride of George H. Hott, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hott of Lookout avenue. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. L. C. T. Miller, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, in a room that was beautifully decorated with ferns and palms. Mrs. Miller, wife of the pastor, played the wedding march. The bride appeared very beautiful in a gown of charmeuse and chenille, wearing a corsage of bridal roses. Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served by the bride's mother, after which the couple left on a short wedding trip to the National capital. The groom is a well-known Charleroi man, being employed as assistant cashier in the First National bank, while the bride, who is also well-known in the community, is a nurse of Pennsylvania and was formerly directress of nurses in the Brownsville General hospital, Brownsville. For the present they will make their home with the groom's parents at 108 Lookout avenue, until their new home at 516 Lookout avenue is completed.

Perfumed Opiate Used by Addicts in London

The narcotic squad of the London police department is reported to be excited over the recent discovery of a perfumed opiate which officials believe is being used by the drug trafficker to lure the unwitting into the drug habit. While investigating conditions in the night clubs—particularly those of a lower category which are associated with the cocaine traffic—the police discovered the perfume.

The officials believe that the importers of the odorous drug—it is distinctly foreign to England—resort to it especially for the novice in drug using. It is generally known that the first taste of drugs sometimes produces anything but the desired effect, and it is just this effect, one of nausea and vertigo, which the police believe the perfumed alkaloid is intended to offset, remarks the New York Times.

Experiments with the recovered perfume show that it need not be administered at all to produce a craving for it. All that is needed is to allow the vapors to float across the nostrils of the intended victim. One of the morbidly curious, who was not a veteran drug addict, explained the procedure of the drug vendor in popularizing his exotic product. She said that she had entered a drug rendezvous to look on. A woman presently approached her after she had experienced the pleasant odors of the strange essence and remarked about the perfume. The visitor said she liked it, whereupon the woman told her where it could be bought. Thinking she had purchased a rare essence, the visitor lifted the stopper of a vial once, twice and then succumbed to a coma. This ended, but she craved again for the vial and thus her addiction began.

While analysis has not yet revealed the composition of the alkaloid, its symptoms are very similar to those of heroin. It is described as a rich and languorous transparent fluid of heavy but not sickly odor.

How Can the Infant Cry So Loud and Long?

In meditating the other day on one of the most familiar lines of Tennyson, "An infant crying in the night," I decided that insufficient attention had been given to it by physiologists, phonologists, music teachers, elocutionists, singers and public speakers.

Even these men and women who are fortunate enough to possess, like Marion Crawford's Roman singer, a throat of iron, do not dare to shout and shriek continuously for the space of two hours; whilst the average adult, if he roared for 15 minutes, would probably be hoarse for two days, and might seriously, perhaps permanently, injure his vocal chords.

Yet a tender infant, with a throat as soft as water, can yell all night fortissimo, and not only do himself no injury, but in the morning be fresh as a fox hound, and not only be able, but quite willing, even eager, to continue.

What is the secret of the baby's voice production? It seems to be a matter worth serious investigation. In emission of tone the infant unconsciously has a system that makes the Italian appear crude. If singing masters could discover what it is, and teach it, all present methods of vocal study would be revolutionized.—William Lyon Phelps in Scribner's Magazine.

Mah Jong Dermatitis Is the Newest Disease

Mah Jong dermatitis is the latest thing in diseases. Devotees of the oriental game are given some facts concerning the disease—an irritation of the skin, according to Hygeia.

Mah Jong cases are varnished freely with Japanese lacquer, says the health journal, and in some instances the lacquer is soft and sticky. It has been scientifically proved that this improperly dried lacquer causes the skin disease which has been afflicting some of the players of the game.

Hundreds of thousands of mah jong sets are now in use in the United States, and only a few cases of the disease have been reported, but now that physicians are on the lookout for the disease others will probably be brought to light.

To prevent any possibility of the disease it will be necessary to see that the lacquer has been well applied and thoroughly dried before the boxes are shipped.

Not all, of course, are sensitive to the disease in an equal degree. Treatment for it is not difficult. Those who are especially sensitive to the lacquer will have to be content with dominoes, rham or auction bridge, says the article.

Making Largest Carillon

What will be the world's largest carillon is being made in England for New York, where it will be installed in the tower of Park Avenue church by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in memory of his mother. It is a tribute to British skill and workmanship that, in spite of keen international competition, the contract for this carillon was secured by a well-known firm of Crofton bellmakers. The carillon will number fifty-three bells whose total weight, without the framework, will be over fifty tons. The largest carillon up to now has been that at Malines, in Belgium.

The name "Shaker" was derived from a peculiar ceremonial dance in which the dancers shake their shoulders.

"They're all mine," snapped the woman, "and it's no picnic."

Health Talk No. 9---WHY ADJUST?

It is difficult for those who do not understand the basic principle underlying Chiropractic to comprehend why the spine should be adjusted for disorders whose symptoms appear in remote parts, such as the foot, leg, arm or shoulder. This is readily understood when it is remembered that the nerves innervating all organs and tissues of the body are branches from the spinal cord. They are all subject to nerve compression, due to subluxation of the vertebrae.

This is made clear by the accompanying illustration, which shows how the nerves, in pairs, pass through the spinal openings, thence to all parts of the body.

Impingement of any nerve by the partial closing of these spinal openings, gives rise to ailments in the parts to which the nerves lead, no matter in what region of the body the nerves terminate.

Chiropractic is in perfect harmony with the inherent forces and natural laws of the body. No other health system is so specific.

PIRATES TAKE FINAL FROM BRAVES — COOP- ER'S PITCHING WINS

Wilbur Cooper and eight other members of the Pirate crew yesterday took occasion to halt the arrival of a new ball player in Pittsburgh, by halting the devastation of the Braves. The recruit was a tiny chap who made his appearance in the home of Manager Bill McKechnie and while he will not be strong enough to break into the game for some years he possesses a voice of sufficient power to make him eligible as an announcer. He would not need any megaphone.

for Baby McKechnie when they learned the news. Then they proceeded to walk over the invaders from Boston and by the time the game was finished, a home run, a three-bagger, a double and five lesser swats, along with a few other fancy things, had been hit.

Braves outbatted the locals by one swat, but the Boston blows were singles and they netted but one tally, while the eight smacks delivered by our fellows represented 14 bases. The score was 5-1 in favor of Pittsburgh.

BRITISH PREMIER AND FAMILY VISIT "CHEQUERS"

Conventional as any Conservative or Liberal, Ramsay MacDonald does knickers for country wear, and is here seen with his daughter, Joan (left) and Isobel, taking a stroll of exploration through the garden on their first visit to "Chequers", official country home of the British Premier. The first Labor Prime Minister spent some time in the old library of the house, and it is said that he intends to make full use of Chequers.

Charleroi will again be represented in the Kennywood Park Track and Field meet, Decoration day, May 30, when six Canoe Club athletes will compete. Allen and Bly will run in the marathon, Gaskill and Shephard will try for points in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, Schramko will try his luck in the high jump and broad jump, while Glase, who will run for the first time, will try the mile. We have quite a few athletes in Charleroi especially High School athletes, who are eligible to enter these meets, but who seem to be afraid to try it.

Bly and Shephard, who have been making good showing in High School athletics, both ran in A. A. U. meets in Pittsburgh and have made a fair showing.

Keeps Old Law

Maryland is the only state in the Union which still requires a religious ceremony for marriage. Other states are satisfied with a civil ceremony. Maryland together with Virginia, Kentucky, Louisiana and Mississippi permit marriage of a girl at twelve years of age. New Hampshire makes the age thirteen years.

Woman Painter Honored

Curious Fish

There is a curious fish called the puffer which is one of the most curious in the world. On the top of its head is a small, round, hard, bony shell which it can use to protect itself from the jaws of other fish or even of man. In this way it makes four bags of hundreds of miles without losing a fin.

Orange From Asia

The sweet orange is a native of Asia and was carried to India, Asia Minor and the south of Europe along the Mediterranean coast. It is now grown in Portugal and is one of the most important fruits of the country.

Moon Is a Dead One

The moon is a dead body without an atmosphere. It has no water on it, either in solid, liquid or gaseous form. —Nature Magazine.

Hen Like Some Men

When a fool hen takes a notion to set she doesn't care whether there are any eggs in the nest or not, and some men are built on the same plan.

Two Dispositions

Every man has two dispositions—one for the times he is brushed the wrong way and one for those when he is brushed the right.

The Days We Remember

Usually, what anyone remembers most pleasantly is some sunny afternoon rather than some purple one.

Moon Reflects Sunlight

The moon emits no light of its own, but it reflects the sunlight which is simply reflected sunlight.

Length of Rivers

Mackenzie river is 2,300 miles long, the St. Lawrence 2,200, and the Mississippi and Missouri, 4,650.
